§149-8-4. Dispatcher Responsibilities.

4.1. Dispatchers under the supervision of police department and communications and emergency operations centers which dispatch the law enforcement officer shall dispatch child abuse and/or neglect calls in the same manner as any other call for police assistance, in accordance with the priority criteria prescribed by generally applicable department procedures. Whenever possible, the dispatcher should assign a back-up unit.

4.2. The dispatcher receiving allegations of a child abuse and/or neglect call should attempt to elicit from the caller, and should communicate to the responding law enforcement officer, as much of the following information, in the following order of importance, as time and emergencies of the reported incident allow:

4.2.a. The address of the incident, including the apartment number or the name of the business, as appropriate;

4.2.b. The nature of the incident;

4.2.c. Establish caller's name whether they are the victim, and a telephone number where the caller can be called back;

4.2.d. Whether or not there are any injuries and whether an ambulance is needed;

4.2.e. Whether weapons are involved or present and if so, where they are located;

4.2.f. A description of the accused and whether or not the accused is present and, if not, the most likely location, direction of flight, and mode of travel of the accused;

4.2.g. Whether a protective order is in effect and if it includes consent to enter the residence to enforce the protective order;

4.2.h. Whether a personal safety order is in effect;

4.2.i. Whether other individuals, including children, are at the scene;

4.2.j. Whether any party is using or is under the influence of alcohol or drugs;

4.2.k. If the caller is the victim, in the residence, and is capable of giving consent, would they consent to entry;

4.2.l. Whether a criminal warrant is outstanding on the accused;

4.2.m. Whether the accused has been released on bail on a charge of a crime against a family or household member, including a family or household member who is a child, with any conditions on bail regarding contact with the victim or complainant; and

4.2.n. Whether a registered sex offender resides in the home;

4.2.o. Best practice is to not provide information that may identify a child over the radio, but to follow-up by telephone.

4.3. If the caller is the victim, or if the caller is a witness to an abuse and/or neglect incident in progress, the dispatcher should keep the caller on the telephone and should relay ongoing information provided by the caller to the responding law enforcement officer. The dispatcher should tell the caller that help is on the way, if that is the case, and will arrive as quickly as possible.

4.4. If the dispatcher has ready access to police department records, all information relevant to the situation shall be relayed to the law enforcement officer. If the agency is capable, the dispatcher shall access the statewide domestic violence registry database to see if there is an active protective order. If so, is the box checked giving the officer consent to enter the residence to enforce the order. If the agency is capable and upon the law enforcement officer's request, the dispatcher shall access the National Crime

Information Center (NCIC), and other criminal information databases to determine whether the parties involved in the incident have been involved previously in domestic incidents. All information received shall be relayed to the requesting law enforcement officer.

4.5. If the dispatcher has reason to believe that the accused is on bail for a crime against a family or household member, including family or household members who are children, and if the dispatcher has ready access to magistrate court records that show whether there are conditions of bail the dispatcher should consult the records and radio any relevant information to the responding law enforcement officer; including the existence of a protective order prohibiting the possession of firearms.

4.6. Dispatchers should notify law enforcement of any audible evidence that may be overheard during a call.

§149-8-5. Law Enforcement Responsibilities.

5.1. Responding to emergency reports of child abuse and/or neglect or other crimes in which children are present on the scene.

5.1.a. Approaching the scene.

5.1.a.1. Scenes may be classified in one of two manners: (A) Alleged criminal act involving children is in progress- an emergency situation- or (B) A complaint of alleged criminal acts involving children that occurred previously and has been reported after the incident has ended- a non-emergency situation.

5.1.a.2. In approaching a reported emergency situation, law enforcement officers should exercise standard precautionary measures, including but not limited to:

5.1.a.2.A. Discontinuing use of lights and sirens before arriving in proximity to the scene.

5.1.a.2.B. Parking at a distance from the scene and making the final approach on foot, in a discreet manner.

5.1.a.2.C. Maintaining awareness of any potential dangers or hazards outside of the immediate scene while approaching- e.g. perpetrator has left the scene but may be in the vicinity.

5.1.a.2.D. Maintaining awareness of potential evidence outside of the immediate scene while approaching- e.g. bloodstains, discarded weapons, shell casings, possible witnesses, vehicles parked near the scene that may have been used by alleged victims or perpetrators to travel to the scene.

5.1.a.3. In approaching a reported non-emergency situation, law enforcement officers should remain aware of potential evidence that may be located outside of the residence - e.g. bloodstains, broken toys, broken windows, accumulated trash around the residence, neglected or maltreated animals, or any indication that the residence would be unsafe or unsanitary for children. If such conditions are observed, the law enforcement officer should document such conditions through the use of photography.

5.1.b. Initial contact.

5.1.b.1. The responding law enforcement officer should identify themselves, explain the law enforcement presence, and request entry into the home or business. The law enforcement officer should ask to see the person who is the subject of the call. The law enforcement officer should not reveal the caller's name.

5.1.b.2. The law enforcement officer may enter and conduct a search of the premises relevant to the incident if written or verbal consent has been given to do so. If a domestic relations protective order is in effect, written consent to enter may have been given by the victim and be on file. The law enforcement officer shall limit the search to a search for other suspects, victims, witnesses, or evidence connected with the alleged domestic incident.

5.1.b.3. If refused entry, the law enforcement officer should be persistent about seeing and speaking alone with the subject of the call. If access to the subject is refused, the law enforcement officer should request the dispatcher to contact the caller, if the caller is the subject of the call, and communicate between the law enforcement officer and the caller. If sufficient probable cause exists, a law enforcement officer may elect to secure the scene pending the issuance of a search warrant for the premises. If the law enforcement officer leaves the scene, the law enforcement officer should drive by the premises and observe it frequently. If the law enforcement officer remains to observe the premises, the law enforcement officer should move to public property (the street) and observe the premises.

5.1.b.4. In some circumstances, forced entry is necessary and appropriate. Forced entry may be appropriate when the residence area shows signs of a fight or scuffle; or when a person from inside the residence calls for assistance or is yelling; or when a person from inside is visible and the law enforcement officer observes that the person is wounded, injured, or is otherwise in need of assistance.

5.1.c. Establishing control of the scene.

5.1.c.1. If the scene is established as an emergency situation- abuse and/or neglect of children in progress or just occurred- then the law enforcement officer shall undertake immediate action to secure the scene and protect all occupants of the residence.

5.1.c.1.A. Determine if anyone in the residence is armed or is in close proximity to dangerous and deadly weapons. Call for the assistance of other law enforcement officers as necessary to secure the scene.

5.1.c.1.B. Determine if anyone in the residence is in need of immediate medical attention and, if so, render such medical attention as is possible until emergency medical service personnel arrive at the scene.

5.1.c.1.C. To the extent possible, the law enforcement officer should separate the involved parties at the emergency scene and attempt to interview all parties separately. The preferred method for documenting at-scene interviews shall be the use of digital audio and/or digital video recording devices. Even if there are no immediate allegations of child abuse, law enforcement officers shall interview any children present to determine what, if anything, the children within the residence may have heard, seen, or otherwise observed.

5.1.c.1.D. Law enforcement officers present at an emergency scene shall make note of factors within the scene consistent with the possible abuse and/or neglect of children, including but not limited to, dangers within the residence such as exposed wiring or open heating sources, chemicals or dangerous substances within reach of small children, rodent infestation, unsanitary living conditions, broken fixtures within the residence or other indications of inter-personal family violence, including but not limited to bloodstains or visible physical injuries to children or adults within the residence such as bruises, cuts, redness, bite marks, or other injuries. As soon as may be practical, the law enforcement officer should document any such observations through the use of digital photography.

5.1.c.1.E. The law enforcement officer at the scene shall determine if CPS shall be notified of the potential child abuse and/or neglect situation and shall maintain a presence at the scene until a CPS worker can arrive at the scene to assist with the investigation.

5.1.c.2. If the scene is classified as a non-emergency situation - no violence is in progress or has just occurred- then the law enforcement officer shall proceed to conduct the preliminary investigation using normal investigative protocols.

5.1.c.2.A. When possible, the law enforcement officer should attempt to have a CPS worker accompany them to the scene of any reported incident of child abuse and/or neglect.

5.1.c.2.B. Upon arriving at the scene of a reported incident that is no longer in progress, the law enforcement officer shall use routine precautions to insure that no one in the residence poses an immediate danger to anyone else present, including the law enforcement officer and/or the CPS worker.

5.1.c.2.C. To the extent possible, the law enforcement officer shall separate all involved parties or witnesses and shall conduct interviews with all involved parties or witnesses. The preferred method is to record all such interviews using digital audio and/or audio-video recording systems.

5.1.c.2.D. In any non-emergency situation the preferred method shall be for the law enforcement officer and/or CPS worker to interview any adult victims or witnesses first. If any adult present at the scene alleges the potential of child abuse and/or neglect the law enforcement officer and/or CPS worker shall attempt to schedule an appointment for the child or children to undergo a forensic interview at the nearest CAC or another neutral setting by a trained forensic interviewer.

5.1.c.2.E. If, during a preliminary investigation, a child discloses allegations of physical abuse and/or sexual abuse, the law enforcement officer and/or CPS worker shall attempt to schedule a forensic interview with the child at the closest CAC as soon as possible. If no CAC is available, then the next best location shall be a neutral location, preferably in a child-friendly setting. If no such resources are available, then the law enforcement officer and/or CPS worker present at the scene shall conduct and record an interview with the child or children using appropriate forensic interviewing techniques.

5.1.c.3. The preferred and recommended method of conducting all non-emergency interviews with children who are the alleged victims of child abuse or neglect or child sexual abuse, shall be to schedule an interview with the child or children at the closest CAC by a neutral forensic interviewer at the earliest possible time, as appropriate to the county based protocols. When no CAC is available for use, the law enforcement officer and/or CPS worker shall undertake every effort to interview the child or children in the most effective manner possible consistent with the health, safety and well-being of the child.

5.2. Initial investigation.

5.2.a. Child abuse and/or neglect is alleged in the complaint (call).

5.2.a.1. Identify the alleged perpetrator and determine if the perpetrator is a family member or custodian.

5.2.a.1.A. If CPS is on scene or arrives during the on scene investigation:

5.2.a.1.A.1. The law enforcement officer and CPS worker should work together in a manner to protect the alleged victim, other children, and adults in the residence.

5.2.a.1.A.2. Law enforcement may be contacted when CPS is already on scene, after they have been on the scene, or when they are in route to the scene.

5.2.a.1.A.3. Consult with the CPS worker so the law enforcement officer can determine how to intervene.

5.2.a.1.B. Keep children with known adults; whenever possible – identify someone at the scene who can take care of them.

5.2.a.1.C. Check the well-being of all children who reside in the home.

5.2.a.1.D. When applicable take color photos of the crime scene including any evidence of children's abuse and/or neglect, e.g. interior/exterior condition of the entire residence or facility where abuse occurred, child injuries, parents (if involved).

5.2.a.1.E. List all children who reside in the home and/or all children the alleged perpetrator may have had access to, in the body of the report.

5.2.a.1.F. Avoid making an arrest in the children's presence whenever possible.

5.2.a.1.G. If the law enforcement officer suspects the child is subject to conditions where child abuse and/or neglect has or is likely to occur, make a mandatory referral to CPS. A child does not have to be directly physically injured, nor does a crime have to of occurred, to mandate a report to CPS.

5.2.a.1.H. All cases involving child death, unattended by a medical provider, must be reported to the appropriate medical examiner or coroner.

5.2.a.2. Interviewing alleged perpetrator.

5.2.a.2.A. Try not to interview the perpetrator in the children's presence. To the extent possible, the law enforcement officer should separate the involved parties at the emergency scene and attempt to interview all parties separately.

5.2.a.2.B. Apply Miranda warning as appropriate to the situation.

5.2.b. Observation/response to child abuse and/or neglect when responding to other alleged crimes.

5.2.b.1. Check for signs of children's presence when observing scene of all crimes.

5.2.b.2. If children were on the scene at the time of the alleged crime, or personally witnessed the crime, make sure to list them on the incident report as witnesses or in the body of the report. If a child is a victim of any crime, including such crimes as child abuse and/or neglect, list the child as a victim in the report or write a separate report.

5.2.b.3. When taking color photos of the crime scene include any evidence of children's exposure to violence or evidence of child abuse and/or neglect, e.g. crib/child's bed in room where victim was injured, toys broken and thrown around room, interior/exterior condition of the entire residence or facility where abuse occurred, child injuries, parents (if involved).

5.2.b.4. Avoid making an arrest in the children's presence whenever possible.

5.2.b.5. If the officer(s) suspects the child is subject to conditions where child abuse and/or neglect has or is likely to occur, make a mandatory referral to CPS. A child does not have to be directly physically injured, nor does a crime have to have occurred, to mandate a report to CPS.

5.2.b.5.A. Child abuse and/or neglect when domestic violence is present. In addition to procedures outlined in the Protocol for Law Enforcement Response to Domestic Violence (149CSR3), the following describes some of the responsibilities of the responding law enforcement officer when children are exposed to a domestic violence incident, or reside in the home.

5.2.b.5.A.1. List all children who reside in the home who were not present during the domestic violence incident in the body of the report.

5.2.b.5.A.2. When taking color photos of the crime scene include any evidence of children's exposure to violence, e.g. crib/child's bed in room where victim was injured, toys broken and thrown around room.

5.2.b.5.A.3. When interviewing parents/custodians, keep in mind that child abuse can be perpetrated by either the suspect or victim of domestic violence or both parties. However, a victim of domestic violence should not be treated as a suspect of child abuse unless there is reasonable cause to believe that the victim has perpetrated some type of abuse upon a child. Treating the victim as a suspect will place the victim in a guarded and defensive state which may impede an investigation and cause further trauma to the victim and child.

5.2.b.5.A.4. When interviewing parents/custodians, ask about the children and their location during the incident.

5.2.b.5.B. Child abuse and/or neglect with drug endangerment by parent/custodian. In addition to procedures outlined in these rules and existing or established department procedures for responding to calls when substance abuse/illegal use of substances is present, the following describes some of the responsibilities of the responding law enforcement officer when children are exposed to substance abuse/illegal use, or reside in the home.

5.2.b.5.B.1. Observe for access to controlled substances by children and/or manufacture of controlled substances with children present.

5.2.b.5.B.2. When taking color photos of the crime scene include any evidence of children's access to or ingestion of controlled substances, e.g. crib/child's bed in room where controlled substances are found or manufactured, or drug paraphernalia within reach of children.

5.2.b.5.B.3. If the law enforcement officer suspects the child is subject to conditions where child abuse and/or neglect has or is likely to occur, make a mandatory referral to CPS. A child does not have to be directly physically injured, nor does a crime have to have occurred, to mandate a report to CPS.

5.2.c. Do not use children present on scene as non-English speaking or sign language interpreters. To do so will increase their trauma. It puts them in a situation of divided loyalty, and they may fear repercussions from the aggressor in the incident. Their translation may also be unreliable, because it is affected by their own emotional state. Some jurisdictions require that no family members be used to translate interviews.

5.2.d. Taking emergency custody without a court order.

5.2.d.1. A law enforcement officer may take emergency custody of a child believed to be abused and/or neglected without a court order if (1) the child is abandoned or (2) the law enforcement officer determines that a child is in a condition requiring emergency medical treatment by a physician and the child's parents, parent, guardian or custodian refuses to permit such treatment, or is unavailable for consent (W.Va. Code §49-6-9).

5.2.d.1.A. If the law enforcement officer discovers an abandoned child, the law enforcement officer cannot remove the child as abandoned from a place until all reasonable efforts to make inquiries and arrangements with neighbors, relatives and friends have been exhausted. No child may be considered abandoned, and custody withheld from the child's parent(s), guardian or custodian if they present themselves in a fit and proper condition and request physical custody of such child. Prior to taking a child into protective custody as abandoned, the law enforcement officer shall post a typed or legibly handwritten notice at the place the child is found, informing the parent(s), guardian or custodian that the child was taken by a law-enforcement officer, the name, address and office telephone number of the law enforcement officer, the place and telephone number where information can continuously be obtained as to the child or children's whereabouts, and if known, the CPS worker for the state department having responsibility for the child.

5.2.d.1.B. A law enforcement officer may take emergency custody of a child without a court order for conditions requiring emergency medical treatment. A condition requiring emergency medical treatment means a condition which, if left untreated for a period of a few hours, may result in permanent physical damage. Such conditions include, but are not limited to, profuse or arterial bleeding, dislocation or fracture, unconsciousness and/or evidence of ingestion of significant amounts of a dangerous substance. When a law enforcement officer takes custody of a child due to the child requiring emergency medical treatment, the law enforcement officer must assure that the child is taken directly to an appropriate medical facility. The law enforcement officer must provide the child's parent(s), guardian or custodian the name and location of the medical facility to which the child is being taken.

5.2.d.2. When transferring emergency custody to a physician or worker from the West Virginia DHHR, the law enforcement officer must provide a typed or legibly handwritten statement identifying the law enforcement officer's name, address and office telephone number and specifying all the facts upon which the decision to take the child into protective custody was based, the date, time and place of the taking. If custody is being transferred to CPS, the CPS worker may provide the law enforcement officer an emergency placement contract that would meet these requirements.

§149-8-6. Child Protective Services Responsibilities.

6.1. Child Protective Services is provided by the West Virginia DHHR. CPS is not a punitive intervention but rather helping in nature. Although CPS and law enforcement have different duties and responsibilities, through collaboration and partnership both entities can maintain their own organizational integrity and meet their professional obligations to protect children.

6.2. Child Protective Services must assess families when a child is abused and/or neglected, or when a child is subject to conditions where abuse and/or neglect is likely to occur. Child Protective Services must respond in a timely manner in order to ensure child safety based upon the alleged child maltreatment and family conditions.

6.3. The CPS assessment seeks to determine if a child in the residence requires protection from their parents, guardians or custodians. If a child in the residence requires protection, CPS then provides ongoing services to the family to change the behavior.

6.4. Child Protective Services may be required to seek judicial authorization to remove a child from their home in order to assure protection. This decision is not strictly dependent upon whether or not a crime has occurred and should not deter law enforcement officers from pursuing criminal charges when appropriate.

6.5. Child Protective Services must cooperate, to the extent possible, with law enforcement officers when conducting joint assessments/investigations. When working with officers, CPS workers must adhere to applicable state statutes, federal statutes, local MDIT procedures and CPS policies.
